Dear Sirs :

Your letter dated November 24th has been forwarded to me, in which you state that there is a tennis trophy stored with the Custodian. Yes, that trophy does belong to me, and I had lost hope of ever seeing it again when I left it behind so you can imagine how glad I was to hear that you had kept it. Will you please send it to my home address at :

194 Clarence Street
LONDON, Ontario

As for the identity of some of the other goods which you say are stored with the Custodian, I'll have to see if my folks know more about them, and will let you know if they are wanted.

Yours truly,

Tatsuo F. Kagawa.

Dear Sirs :

This letter is to acknowledge receipt of the table tennis trophy which I had asked to be sent to the above address. I had the understanding from the letter which preceded the shipment that you were sending the parcel prepaid, but the actual facts are ~~a~~ I had to pay the collect charges myself. That amounted to something like $.43, and to top it all, when I opened the parcel the base of the trophy which had been made out of plastic was shattered and neck of the figure molded in metal was knocked off. There used to be some sort of pride attached to being the holder of that trophy but I don't know what to do with it now. Who is to be held responsible for damage during transit?

There are still a half dozen or so small silver cups which never had a chance to be engraved, and they are also my property. Will you send them to London at the above address, and will you see that a cardboard box is wrapped around them?

Hoping that the goods arrive safely, I remain

Yours truly,

T. F. Kagawa
