Situation	Is an Apology Needed? Why/Why Not	What Kind of Apology?
You bump someone accidentally as you pass by his or her desk.
Your lunch bag leaks, spoiling someone's Social Studies project.
You are taking a long shower to ease your aching muscles and your little brother or sister complains that you are taking too long.
Someone trips over your jacket that you left on the ground.
Someone asks you not to tell an embarrassing secret about him or her. You tell your best friend who tells everyone.
You are riding someone else's bike and do not know the brakes do not work. You crash at the bottom of a steep hill, breaking your arm and ruining the bike.
You borrow someone's game. You take it to school and it goes missing.
You borrowed a dollar from a friend and forgot to pay the person back. It is a year later, you still have not paid, and they have not asked for the money.
